Introducing QORUS. Secure, compliant, real-time communications designed for traders

A communications platform that lets your trading teams perform at their best from anywhere.

Connect without compromise

Real-time trading communications you can count on, wherever you are.

QORUS is a digital communications platform designed specifically for traders in hybrid work environments. QORUS is powered by a scalable, distributed software architecture that can reside in a cloud or on-prem.

The QORUS desktop experience optimises communications with a choice of physical or virtual endpoints that increase productivity enabling more informed decision-making for your trading teams.

QORUS can be deployed quickly, replacing legacy equipment, or become an integral part of your existing communication portfolio.

Available as a subscription-based service that offers next-gen connectivity (CADENCE), compliance (SONANCE) and analytics capabilities or can be integrated with existing applications and services.

QORUS makes your trading teams more agile and flexible while reducing complexity and costs and ensuring critical voice services are always up, running and accessible to everyone from anywhere.
